Red Stag Hunt in Hungary 2024

Area: Kaszo

Hunting area:

Approx. 18,000 hectares of Kaszo hunting grounds lie to the south of the Balaton. Almost the entire area is forested, surrounded by around 7,000 hectares of agricultural land and meadows. You can certainly imagine what this means for all the game: paradisiacal conditions, but that's not all! Additional game fields have been created in the forests. On the one hand to bind the game, on the other hand to minimise the damage caused by game in the fields. The game warden, an experienced and knowledgeable forester, has learnt his trade from scratch. Thanks to the well-developed network of paths and the flat terrain, the hunting ground is easily accessible and even the inaccessible parts of the hunting ground can be reached. All in all, a first-class big game hunting ground.

Game species:

Red deer are the main game species in Kaszo. The population figures alone are impressive. Red deer hunts are organised from the beginning of September until January. You can expect red deer with trophy weights of between 8 kg and 10 kg. (Top stag from 2005 with: 13.7 kg, 2006: 11 kg, 2007: 12.5 kg). The best time is of course the rut, which begins around mid-September. Then you should take a few days, because hunting in this exceptional area has always been something special. This terrain is also ideal for wild boar. Every year on driven and hide hunts, we see the big tuskers that this hunting area produces. There are large thicket complexes of many thousands of hectares, an abundant supply of grazing and low hunting pressure
